The beginning of September marks the traditional end of summer. I hope that our residents enjoyed the Annual Quarry Days Village Picnic. The Village and the Park District put a lot of work in this annual event for the benefit of our residents.

This year marks an important anniversary for our village. The creation of our first TIF (Tax Increment Finance) District which covers the Quarry Shopping Center, is set to expire on December 15th, 2013. On that date, our tax obligations to develop that TIF will be completely paid off. This goal has been a long time in the works and will be a great asset to the village and our financial security in the future.

The Quarry Shopping Center opened about 23 years ago with the Celozzi-Ettleson Cadillac Dealership. Now, the Ettleson-Cadillac-Buick dealership is doing well, along with Advantage Chevrolet, Sam’s Club, Walmart, Target and all the additional stores and restaurants. While not part of the Quarry Shopping Center, I might add that the AMC Theater and Menards are also doing well.

Despite all this success, there is one unfinished piece of the commercial development goal set in TIF #1. The east side of East Avenue has a lot of work to be done. As you can see, some things have occurred: the old Hilltop Tavern property was acquired and the building demolished; several houses along East Avenue have been acquired by Don Schure from D & S Trucking Center for purposes of a new truck sales show room.

I can tell you, we have been working with some other property owners along East Avenue to accomplish a complete makeover to the east side of East Avenue. This is the north entrance to our Village and is important to improve the appearance and will draw additional retail businesses into the mall area. We have just recently obtained a commitment from “Ben’s Rental” of Countryside to relocate to the old Hilltop Tavern property. This will compliment both Menards and the Ben’s Rental business. We are still in talks with two more businesses who may be interested in the East Avenue locations. These new buildings and businesses will improve the appearance of the East Avenue properties and will bring a solid tax base and revenue structure for the village in the long term.

There is still lots of development to work on in the meantime. I hope to report more progress in the very near future.

Noel B. Cummings
Village President

Train Whistles Disturbing You?

The Village has received numerous complaints about the excessive noise from the Burlington Northern Railroad. Residents have complained about the whistle blowing at the two crossings, at Santa Fe Drive and at 67th Street. In addition, complaints have been made about the whistles being blown excessively in the rail yard itself.

A town hall style meeting was held at the village hall in June with the Illinois Commerce Commission and Representatives from Burlington Northern Railroad. About 30 concerned and angry residents attended and voiced their displeasure with the officials.

Mr. Brian Vercruysse of the Illinois Commerce Commission answered many questions and urged residents to make a log of when the train whistles are being excessive. The ICC can then follow up on specific dates and times with the railroad.

The Village is maintaining a record book of complaints. If you hear a train whistle and feel that it is excessive, call and register the date and time with the Village Hall. If it happens in the evening hours or overnight, try and call the Village Hall the next day with the information. All records will then be forwarded to the Illinois Commerce Commission to be investigated.

Immanuel Lutheran Church Parking Request

The Village has been asked to allow restricted parking on Kane Avenue from the Immanuel Lutheran Church to the corner at Kane Avenue and Cobb Street. This parking restriction would only be on Sunday mornings between 7:00 am and 12:00 Noon. This would allow for easier parking for those who are attending church services.

At a committee meeting on September 4th, 2013 Village President Noel Cummings advised that representatives from the Lutheran church asked if it was possible to allow reserved parking for the church attendees during the Sunday morning services. Following a brief discussion, the consensus of board members approved the idea. Signs will be posted on the east side of Kane Avenue from the Church northbound to Cobb Street, that will reflect reserved parking for Sunday mornings from 7:00 am until Noon.

President Cummings noted that the corner lot is already vacant and this should not cause any hardships on street parking during those hours requested.
For Hodgkins Park District’s new Executive Director, Kelly Young, along with the Park District Board, this year marks the culmination of many years of preparation and work toward making dramatic improvements to the village’s athletic and recreational hub. Following a master plan first put together in 2007 by Young and her predecessor, Ron Kubicki, then developed through the stages of grant writing (assisted by Design Perspectives) and application to the state, the commencement of construction on the PARC Grant Building Expansion and Renovation Project has been a long-hoped-for dream for the Hodgkins Park District.

At a cost of $3.3 million, $2.75 million of which will be reimbursed by the state of Illinois through the PARC Grant (Park And Recreation facility Construction program), the project will see the renovation of the older portion of the building (constructed in 1958), the addition of an indoor playground at the east end of the building, and an expansion of the fitness center. Also added will be a new locker room, new bathroom facilities, a nutritional classroom (learning kitchen), a new multi-purpose room (to include a fitness studio and a regulation volleyball court), a senior center, an expanded pre-school room with controlled access, and an expanded and more functional lobby area.

In addition to these specific improvements, the building will be getting an overall “facelift” to the exterior, further enhancing the beauty of the community.

At an outdoor groundbreaking ceremony held on July 29th, Young addressed a crowd of village residents and community leaders, expressing her joy at the culmination of so much work over many years. “I can’t believe we’re finally here,” she said.

Also in attendance at the ceremony were representatives of the construction management firm, Sigalos and Associates, and of the architectural firm, Studio GC. Young expressed glowing praise for these two companies, and an excitement to see their work come to life.

“We threw any and every idea we ever had for this building at them. And we aren’t sure how they did it, but, even dealing with our craziness, they designed the most beautiful and functional building we could have ever imagined. I couldn’t have asked for a better team.”

The PARC Grant program is provided through the Illinois Department of Natural Resources. It provides 75% of funding for construction on public parks and recreational facilities through reimbursement, with the municipality typically covering the remaining 25%.

Construction is set to be completed by June 2014.
In this difficult economy, many families have struggled to make ends meet, and this sometimes can even result in food shortages. The Chicago Food Depository, with the support of the Township of Lyons and the Community Memorial Foundation, has made strides to help meet some of these needs. They have begun using Hodgkins Park District as a distribution point for their area food pantry, in addition to St. Blasé Parish in Summit and the Justice Village Hall. Employees of the Park District and Village, along with community volunteers, helped to distribute the food to individuals and families in need.

Starting in October of 2011, the food pantry has supplied numerous food items to people who seek food assistance. Among the items available in past food giveaways are cereal, pasta boxes, canned goods, crackers, potatoes, peanut butter, melons, and a host of other foods that are easy to prepare or ready to eat. As of now, all that is required of those seeking food is their name, address, and the number in their household.

The next food pantry giveaway hosted by the Hodgkins Park District will be held on Sept. 17, 2013. If you have any questions, or for opportunities to volunteer, feel free to contact Park District Executive Director, Kelly Young at 708-354-6563.
Hodgkins Historical Society Invites You To An Open House

By: Susan Cappa

The Village of Hodgkins Historical Society Committee preserves the way of life and progress of the Village since it's beginning to present day. Respecting the families, entities, and artifacts that represent the history of the Village of Hodgkins is priority. Displaying the history of the Village of Hodgkins for the community to view in a safe organized way will be done to the best of our abilities.

The Historical Society building is located at 6511 Kane Avenue. You may know it as the old village hall and fire department or the community center. The hours of operation are being worked on and will be posted soon. Countless hours have gone into renovating the building and preparing it to be the new home of the Historical Society.

The Centennial Committee did research, gathered photographs, oral and written histories from residents for the Centennial Celebrations in 1996. They have given the present Historical Society a wealth of information to work with.

The Historical Society Committee has taken tours of other local Historical Societies and gained knowledge and insight as to how items are cataloged and preserved. We have spent the summer cataloging and preserving the photographs and artifacts that we do have at the present time. We will be asking for donations of any artifacts and photographs that represent the past. There are two ways to donate an item. One you can gift the item to the Historical Society, which is the preferred method or loan an item to the Historical Society. Each item will be cataloged and properly cared for.

The Historical Society will have files on the homes in the residential area of Hodgkins. We need you to help fill the files with information about your home. Take a picture of your home at present and your family. If you have any photographs of your home before renovations and knowledge of previous occupants we would like to copy them for our files.

The Historical Society functions on volunteerism. We welcome all who wish to volunteer hours to work on archiving photographs, artifacts, data entry, and working during hours of operation.

The Village of Hodgkins is part of a family's history even if you have just moved to the area or are a lifelong resident. Please come and join us in preserving your family's history.

Members of the Historical Society Committee: Alida Millsap, Ellen Diederich, Joy Caldwell, Diane Knack, and Sue Cappa

Exhibits Include:

Quarry, Fire Department, Police Department, Village Government, WWI, WWII, Korean, and Vietnam military items, School, Churches, Businesses, Home life of the past and Fashions of the past are what will be on display. We ask the residents to ponder these exhibits and think about artifacts that you may have that can be added to our inventory. We plan to have a list available of possible items that you may have during Quarry Days. We may have special exhibits throughout the year and asking for items to be brought in for exhibits. An example of a special exhibit would be Christmas Ornaments of the Past. We ask for loans of the ornaments you may have to put on display. You may have ideas for exhibits and we would love to hear about them.
For Sergeant Michael Cimino, this year marked the end of a twelve-year run as the Hodgkins DARE officer. On April 24, Cimino stood before a crowd of students, parents, teachers, administrators, police, and civic leaders at the 2013 DARE Graduation, and addressed the group for the last time in that capacity. He expressed his thankfulness to the police department for its full support of him as he led DARE, to the teachers who assisted him over the years, and to the parents for entrusting their children with him on all the outings and activities that make up such a large portion of the program. He also thanked Sergeant Chris Milojevich, former Hodgkins DARE officer and current Youth Division Supervisor, for giving him the opportunity to run the DARE program, as well as the freedom to run it his own way.

Police Officer Matthew Hosteny will now take on the DARE duties, picking up where Cimino leaves off. Cimino expressed his full confidence that DARE is in capable hands with the new DARE officer.

“I’m sure [Hosteny] will do a great job, as he’s young and he already has a good relationship with the kids,” said Cimino.

Speaking of the joys of working with his DARE classes, Cimino had this to say: “I think what I will miss most is seeing the enthusiasm of the kids when I would walk in. Kids get very excited about DARE activities.”

Cimino was also quick to admit that he had been changed by the experience. “It’s helped me to look at law enforcement through the eyes of sixth-graders, and how they view police officers,” he said. “It’s made me more mindful and aware of our image in the community. I’m proud that, as a DARE officer, I was able to be a positive adult figure, and in particular a positive law enforcement figure, in so many children’s lives. Often, because I taught multiple siblings in succession over several years, and interacted with their parents and siblings over and over, I had the feeling of being a part of their family.”

The Hodgkins DARE program was started in January of 1991 by former Chief Rich Stewart and Dep. Chief Hugh Rhodes. Youth Division Supervisor Ofc. Phil Kringlie recommended Milojevich and the program was set in motion. Ofc. Milojevich ran the program for nine years. During his tenure as DARE officer, Milojevich started the practice of taking the kids on field trips and doing community service projects, such as raking leaves for the elderly and fundraising for flood victims and a children’s home for the abused. He first contacted Cimino, who had already been a juvenile officer for two years at that time, about DARE in 2000, to see if he would be interested in becoming the new DARE officer. He later turned the program completely over to Cimino, in 2001. Milojevich knew firsthand how effective creative freedom could be in energizing a program, and he wanted to pass that along.

“I wanted him to run DARE as he saw fit, to make the program his own,” Milojevich said. “I didn’t want to intrude on his ideas. I was given free reign, and I wanted him to have the same opportunity.”

Congratulations Sgt. Cimino for your service as Hodgkins DARE Officer for the past 12 years!

Coyotes have become a frequent sight in Cook County in the past few years. Populations of the species, which were indigenous to northern Illinois, have returned in recent decades in greater numbers. Since coyotes favor undeveloped land, this is particularly noticeable in the vicinity of Cook County Forest Preserves.

Hodgkins has one forest preserve, Theodore Stone Woods, and is bordered by another, Sunset Meadows, just to the west. Coyotes have been spotted frequently in and around Hodgkins for many years now. Although coyotes tend to avoid humans, there are circumstances that can increase human-coyote contact, which can often become a nuisance to humans and deadly to the coyote.

According to the Audubon Society of Portland and the Cook County Department of Animal and Rabies Control, there are a number of strategies the public can adopt in order to reduce conflict with coyotes:

- Be sure to supervise children and pets outdoors. House pets should be kept indoors or in controlled access to the outdoors (walking on leashes and/or confining in a fenced-in yard)
- Never feed a coyote
- If you see a coyote in or near your yard, shout and make loud noises to signal they are not welcome
- Remove any fallen fruit from your yard
- Never approach a coyote. Cornered coyotes will bite, and habituation to humans is the primary cause of aggressive foraging around yards. Teach children to respect wildlife from a distance
- Cover and secure household garbage
- Consider installing a motion-sensitive outdoor lighting system if coyotes become a frequent visitor to your property

If a coyote becomes a nuisance by aggressively following children or animals, or if they are repeatedly spotted in yards during the day, they should be removed by professionals. If you encounter an aggressive or threatening coyote, contact the:
